

Context / Problem

Besides the difficulties, the tendency is the acceptance of social media use by professionals to better understand potential people with depression.

Artifact

A classification model to support a health specialist to identify possible depressive groups.

Computational Theory

Social Networks
Classification Algorithms

Theoretical Conjectures

Is it possible and feasible combine analysis from computational background to psychology area in order to cohort depressive groups from social media?

Psychology Theory

Depression study area

State of the Art

Systematic Literature Review

Substantiates

Drive

Validates

Substantiate

Substantiates